References

Bakhtin, M. M., (1993), Toward a Philosophy of the ACT, Austin Tx: University of Texas Press

Czarniawska, Barbara, and Pasquale Gagliardi (2003), “Narratives We Organize By” Amsterdam: John Benjamins, and Goteborg: Goteborg University Press

D’Souza, Clare and David Prentice (2002), “Auctioneer strategy and pricing: evidence from an art auction”, Marketing Intelligence and Planning, 20/7, pp. 417-427

300

Firat, Fuat and Alladi Venkatesh (1997), “The Play is the Thing…”. Comments on Ben Fine’s ‘Playing the Consumption Game’”, Consumption, Markets and Culture, Vo. 1 no.3, pp 197-302

Gee, James Paul (2003), “What Video Games Have to Teach Us About Learning and Literacy”, ACM Computers in Entertainment, Vol 1, no. 1, October

Matrix (1999), Hollywood, Warner Brothers,

Merlin, W. Donald (1993), “Human cognitive evolution: what we were, what we are becoming”, Social Research, Vol. 60, pp 143-170

Miège, Bernard (1998), The Communication Thought (re-examined and increased edition), Grenoble: University presses of Grenoble

Poster, Mark (1995), CyberDemocracy: Internet and the Public Sphere, Irvine CA: University of California press

Rossetti, Christina (1862), Goblin Market and other Poems, Cambridge, Macmillan, (also printed in Text from Christina Rossetti, Poems (1890) Fisher Rare Book Library, Toronto)

Siddiqui, Shakeel and Darach Turley (2007a), “Explorations in Cyberspace using Deep-Web-Cyber-Archaeology” (accepted for publication ) in Otnes, McGrath and Borghini eds. in European Advances in Consumer Research, Vol. 8, Provo, UT: Association for Consumer Research

Sorensen, Knut Og and Mette Lie (1996), Making Technology our own? Domesticating Technology in Everyday Life, Oslo: Scandinavian University Press

